

IN THE ABSTRACT:

Please change the abstract as follows.

~~--The invention relates to an~~An electronic device comprising an interface for providing a connection with an accessory. The accessory includes a library for enabling said electronic device to use the accessory. The electronic device further comprises means for providing ~~the~~said library available to the electronic device. The invention ~~may be of use~~also relates within, or in conjunction with, to a mobile communication device and a system. A corresponding method for accessing the accessory of the electronic device and a computer program product for implementing the method are also provided. ~~The invention further relates to a method for accessing accessory of an electronic device; a computer program product for implementing the method; and a method for providing accessing accessory of an electronic device.--~~